This "webinar" took place on June 3, 2026, at 19:00, Spanish time.

The webinar content included:

How sustainability is transforming the future of project management. In this inspiring webinar, speakers explored global trends, real project examples, and PMI's sustainability initiatives. They also shared practical insights on how project leaders can create lasting impact while increasing business value, driving innovation, and promoting social responsibility. How to lead the integration of sustainability into projects was highlighted.

The "impact webinars" are a series of monthly webinars organized by the Madrid Chapter and open to the entire PMI community, as well as to PMI friends and professionals interested in project management. The series highlights the Chapter's Interest Groups, thematic communities that bring together PMI® professionals with common interests in areas such as energy and sustainability, artificial intelligence, agility, business analysis, and more. Each session creates a space for dialogue between the Interest Groups and invited experts, aimed at exploring trends, sharing new perspectives, and offering high-value professional knowledge.
